Dear Sarah,

You are cordially invited to continue your participation in the Institute for Agriculture and Trade Policy's (IATP) project to increase understanding of the relationship of agriculture, the environment and trade to surface and ground water management in the Great Lakes basin. The enclosed "Impacts of Food Production to Water Quantity in the Great Lakes Basin" was prepared by Jennifer Kramer Glynn, an IATP researcher, to begin identifying gaps in knowledge in this arena. As you know, the paper was reviewed and discussed at the IATP-organized workshop in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan in February 2002. It provides a basis for further research and discussion about the future needs and trends that may affect the Great Lakes basin and residents.

In preparation for a public release, we are asking a select group of Great Lakes specialists to peer review the report. We are offering an honorarium of $300.00 for your input and review.

Please let us know as soon as possible if you are interested in participating in the peer review, as we would like to have all comments back by June 6, 2002. If you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact either myself (tel. 612-870-3474; email stlight@iatp.org) or Jim Kleinschmit (tel. 612-870-3430; email jim@iatp.org).

Thank you for your time and attention.

Sincerely,

Steve Light
